

Erasmus Mundus Joint Master in Parliamentary Procedures and Legislative Drafting (EUPADRA).
Scholarships Available and study in Rome, Madrid and London!

LUISS Guido Carli, Complutense Universidad and the Institute for Advanced Legal Studies, University of London have partnered for the first international postgraduate master allowing the the study of parliamentary procedures and legislative drafting in Rome, Madrid and London , seats of National Parliaments and meeting points of private actors and NGOs working in the sector of parliamentary affairs.

The mobility offers participants to benefit from the direct contact with parliamentary officials involved in the Master activities, creating a fundamental “bridge” between theory and practice. Inter alia, study visits to these Chambers will be included in the programme.

The benefits of this strategy are self-evident: students are put in condition to observe at first hand the real dynamics of the democratic process which usually are not described in academic handbooks. Furthermore, students learn to apply the theoretical background assimilated through the courses within real working situations. In particular, the main aspects of excellence, innovation and internationalization are the following:

- an international Master alumni community aimed at maintaining the personal relationships among participants and valorizing their networking skills;
- the possibility, during internships, to analyze and propose solutions to a real problems as part of a Project Study;
- the involvement in the governance of the Master of eminent professional figures who support students also in terms of mentorship;
- the synergies with a wide international network ;
- the strong visibility of the scientific outcomes of the Master through their publication in journals that specialize in the field of Parliamentary Law and other editorial initiatives.

While other Masters in legislative studies adopt either a national or a European focus, EUPADRA is based on an understanding of the parliamentary decision-making process as a “compound” and “euro-national” process, made of national and European elements interacting among each other. In other words, exploring the interconnections between the national and supranational context, EUPADRA offers an overview of the combination between the trend to “Europeanize” National Parliaments and the parliamentary dynamics of the European Union (as well as other regional supranational organizations)

For more information about the program, please visit www.eupadra.eu or write to eupadra@luiss.it

Scholarship for students coming from Latin American countries are available. For more information please visit the section Prospective Students of the website www.eupadra.eu

Deadline for application 15 March 2015.

Lorenzo Valeri

Manager Scientifico SoG. SEP, LSL

Via di Villa Emiliani, 14 - 00198 Roma lvaleri@luiss.it, tel. +39 06 85225067, cel. +39 3381297980
www.luiss.it

