ACADEMIC BOARD

WELCOME MESSAGE

LUISA VINCI

Accademia Teatro alla Scala
General Manager

Accademia Teatro alla Scala trains and develops all professional figures associated in some way with theater performances, with a special emphasis on opera, through its four departments (Music, Dance, Stagecraft and Management).

The teaching methodology, grounded in the philosophy of learning by doing, provides daily experience on stage and behind the scenes alongside the established artists, managers, professionals and technicians of Teatro alla Scala, supported by the contributions of internationally famous experts and specialists.

Always attuned to socioeconomic developments in the employment market, the Accademia firmly believes in the importance of training managers for the performing arts, professionals who are not only capable of weaving a dense network of international relations, optimizing available financial resources and generating new ones, but also able to produce broad-reaching projects within a well targeted and effective cultural policy.

The partnership with POLIMI Graduate School of Management, an internationally recognized management school that fully shares the Accademia's vision and educational mission, fully responds to that objective. And the same commonality of purpose is also shared with the Piccolo Teatro di Milano - Teatro d'Europa, one of the city's most active institutions in cultural marketing.

ACCADEMIA TEATRO ALLA SCALA

The Accademia Teatro alla Scala Foundation, chaired by Victor Massiah and directed by Luisa Vinci, stands as a beacon of excellence in performing arts education on the international stage. Deeply rooted in the rich heritage of La Scala, the Academy offers a comprehensive curriculum encompassing all facets of live performance. Our faculty, comprised of world-renowned artists and industry professionals, ensures a world-class learning experience. This is due to the extensive experience gained through opera and ballet productions, concerts, exhibitions, and special projects, coupled with internships at leading performing arts institutions. This comprehensive training ensures that our graduates are well-prepared to embark on successful careers in the performing arts. This tradition dates back to 1813, when the Ballet School was founded and has since shaped artists of the highest caliber.

Today, the Academy is divided into four departments - Music, Dance, Stagecraft, and Management - offering over thirty courses, including preparatory programs, training courses, advanced specialization courses, first- and second-level academic diplomas, as well as first-level Master's programs, workshops, and summer internships.

The Management Department, headed by Monica Errico, has experienced significant growth in recent years and now offers a wide range of highly specialized programs. In addition to the flagship Global Master in Performing Arts Management, the department offers an Executive Master in Sponsoring and Fundraising for the Performing Arts, designed for professionals aiming to acquire advanced skills in securing funding for cultural institutions; a Stage Management Course and a Course for Assistant Stage Directors, which train two specific professional figures who perform essential organizational and managerial functions in theatrical productions. The program is completed by specialized workshops in production management, dance management, and assistant stage directing, offering an introductory overview of the multiple skills required for each role.

PICCOLO TEATRO DI MILANO

PICCOLO

TEATRO STREHLER
TEATRO D'EUROPA

The Piccolo Teatro was established on the 14 May 1947 by Giorgio Strehler, Paolo Grassi and Nina Vinchi. It was the first public theater to be built in Italy, and the most popular on the national and international scene.

The vision of the founders was to create an institution, supported by the central government and by local authorities (the Municipality and the Province of Milan, the Region of Lombardy), as a public service essential for the wellbeing of its citizens. The slogan that accompanied the birth of the Piccolo Teatro was “un Teatro d’Arte per Tutti” (“An Arts Theater for Everyone”) and this phrase still sums up the theater’s mission today: to stage quality shows for the broadest possible audience. Since 1991, the Piccolo Teatro di Milano is also a “Teatro d’Europa” (Theater of Europe).

In over sixty-seven years of activity, the Piccolo Teatro has produced more than 300 shows (200 of which directed by Strehler). Since 1998, with the changeover to Sergio Escobar and Luca Ronconi, the Piccolo has expanded its international and interdisciplinary dimension, proposing itself as the ideal cultural center for the city and for Europe. At the Piccolo Teatro, dance, prose, festivals, film screenings, round tables and in-depth meetings on cultural matters alternate on the stage. Since 1 September 2015 Stefano Massini has been the artistic consultant of the Piccolo Teatro. From the end of 2020, Piccolo Teatro passes under the direction of Claudio Longhi.

AFTER YOUR MASTER

ALUMNI NETWORK

Your entry into the POLIMI Graduate School of Management and Accademia Teatro alla Scala communities begins upon your arrival and continues after your graduation, when you join the POLIMI GSoM alumni network, which has over 20,000 graduates, and the larger Politecnico di Milano community, with more than 210,000 members, including over 35,000 graduates from the School of Management, as well as the Accademia Teatro alla Scala alumni network.

The School's Alumni Engagement Team is constantly working to provide the entire community of former students with opportunities for meeting and exchanging their skills and experience. All this is with a view to feeding and nurturing a cohesive community: a successful career is, in fact, the result of a unique fusion of exceptional skills and expertise, as well as constant professional development and a network of valuable, high-quality contacts, which is built precisely through being part of the community.

Community engagement is based on three main pillars, which are: shaping purposeful careers, leading through connections and igniting the future. As for the first of these, the School partners with our alumni through professional and personal development programmes designed for all those who aspire to be Purposeful Innovators and to generate a positive impact on society. The services include the Purposeful Coaching path, aimed at supporting alumni in building meaningful careers guided by a clear and defined Purpose, and the Professional Development – Training Catalogue, dedicated to strengthening the knowledge and the application of career management skills useful for building sustainable careers.

LORENZO GORINI

As for the second, our Alumni Clubs – which you will be able to join – should be mentioned. Created to bring together people who share an interest or a professional goal, they allow alumni – and also students – to meet, share experiences and stay in contact with the School. Each of our Clubs – Business & Digital Transformation, Consulting, Corporate Innovation, Entrepreneurship, Finance Innovation, Football, Healthcare & Life Sciences, LeadHERship – Empowering Women in Business, MBA, Project Management, Sailing, Supply Chain Management & Logistics and Wine Tech – creates a strong sense of belonging. Finally, let's not forget Shape the Future, the Global Alumni Conference organised by and for the Alumni Community to celebrate the accomplishments that shape the future of innovation, entrepreneurship and sustainability.

Moreover, you'll also be able to subscribe, both online and via app, to ALUMNI Accademia La Scala: a lively, dynamic space that hosts a community of young talents who have entrusted their futures to one of Europe's leading educational institutes in the performing arts. Pursuing their studies at the same institute, Academy alumni have shared unique experiences in the classrooms, behind the scenes, and on stage at Teatro alla Scala, learning, assimilating and mastering a particular way of living and doing theatre. They are young people who have nurtured their passion through hard work and determination, transforming it into a profession. Now, backed by a wealth of skills, competencies, and knowledge, they have become true maestri of the La Scala method, its ambassadors to the world.

Alumni La Scala was formed so that this heritage of experiences and knowledge can be strengthened and expanded through constant new input. The majority of the content are organized into specific sections, allowing the alumni to continue their professional growth and stay abreast of the latest developments: job opportunities (job platform), professional and personal exchange (networking), invitations to exclusive events (events), exclusive learning opportunities (lifelong learning), mentoring for the youngest alumni by acclaimed former students (mentorship), and a section where they can present their own projects to the community (incubator).

The platform is also open to companies and institutions involved in cultural promotion, the performing arts, advertising, or events. These include not only those having longstanding collaborative relationships with the Academy, but also the many different organizations looking for professional figures with a solid background in culture and the performing arts, a guarantee offered by the La Scala Academy. Companies and institutions can post job offers and promote their events and projects in a specifically dedicated section. These are additional opportunities for encounters within the community and for bringing new vitality and dynamism to Alumni Accademia La Scala.

ALUMNI TESTIMONIALS

ROMY NICOLE CARBONE

The coursework

The Master's program has proven to be an extraordinary opportunity for a full immersion in the performing arts. Thanks to lectures with professionals in the field, it is possible to understand how the different departments of a theater work, but not only that, it allows students to compare the renowned entities in the area with international ones. The courses provide a theoretical basis, but thanks to group projects, which turn out to be the most interesting challenge, it is possible to concretely apply the concepts learned. What also makes the Master's program stimulating is the convergence of multiple cultures and diverse backgrounds, which are united by a common passion for the performing arts.

LETIZIA MUSELLA

The class

During my master's program in Performing Arts Management, I found the experience of being in class truly remarkable. What made it so special was the chance to connect with classmates of different nationalities, each bringing their unique backgrounds and perspectives into our learning environment. Working with this diverse group was not just educational but also incredibly enriching. It was like taking a journey through the global tapestry of the performing arts. Hearing about their cultural approaches to arts management was eye-opening and often led to fascinating discussions and insights. What made this experience even more special was the relationships formed. I wasn't just building a network; I was forging friendships that would last a lifetime. These connections have proven to be a vital part of my career, offering support, collaboration, and a constant source of inspiration.

GIACOMO NIOLA

Internship, Production Department at Teatro alla Scala

Being an intern in the Production Department of Teatro alla Scala allowed me to discover what it truly means to be inside the engine and heart of a large-scale Theatre. It gave me the opportunity to collaborate with every department, therefore making me see the invisible lines of how everything is dynamically connected. It has been an extremely stimulating experience that added fuel to my interest towards the Production area of the Performing Arts.

AXEL VAUDEY

Internship, Metropolitan Opera House, New York City

My 5-month internship at the Metropolitan Opera in the Marketing & Communications department, was absolutely incredible. I got to dive into a variety of tasks, like helping with sales and promotional marketing, managing front house communications, creating social media content, and organizing public events. Despite the massive staff of around 3,000 people, they really make you feel part of the team. I got to join different meetings, discuss with other departments and I was mostly encouraged to share my thoughts, suggestions, and ideas. And I have to admit, being able to attend some performances and Met opera productions in that amazing theater was a fantastic perk!
